

RE: BUSINESS LICENCE FEES
 (ITEM 9, REPORT NO. 80, 1978 NOVEMBER 14, ATTACHED)
 (ITEM 20, REPORT NO.82, 1977 NOVEMBER 28, ATTACHED)

Attached is a report from the Municipal Treasurer regarding Business Licence Fees.

Council's agendas are the only ones to which tables A and B are attached. Anyone else wishing a copy can do so upon request at the Treasury Department.

In the last paragraph of the Treasurer's report, reference is made to information that is being prepared by the individual departments which carry out inspections. A report on inspectional services will be submitted to Council for consideration on 1978 December 18.

It is now too late in the year to consider some other means of calculating licence fees. Therefore, it is recommended that the fees as recommended by the Treasurer be adopted and if, after consideration of the Treasurer's report, Council is of the opinion that further study should take place, the matter of a fee structure for application to the year 1980 should be referred to a committee of Council for study during 1979.

When Item 9, Report No. 80 came forward on 1978 November 14, the Municipal Manager recommended:

- "1. THAT the licence fee structure outlined in the attachment to the Municipal Treasurer's report be adopted by Council to become effective 1979 January 01.
2. THAT "Burnaby Trades Licence By-law 1950", By-law No. 3809; "Burnaby Club Regulation By-law 1950, By-law No. 3065; "Burnaby Cabaret Regulation By-law 1934", By-law No. 1841; "Burnaby Cab and Commercial Vehicle By-law 1951", By-law No. 3102; "Burnaby Automatic Vending Machine By-law", No. 1914, be amended accordingly"

It was then moved by Alderman Mercier and seconded by Alderman Drummond:

"THAT the recommendations of the Municipal Manager be adopted."

No further action was taken on the recommendations. It was then moved by Alderman Mercier and seconded by Alderman Drummond:

"THAT this matter be referred to Council, meeting as Committee of the Whole, at which time the Municipal Treasurer, the Chief Licence Inspector and other members of the Municipal Inspectional Staff would be present to discuss all ramifications of the subject."

This motion was carried with the understanding that the meeting would be at the call of the Chair.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. THAT the licence fee structure outlined in Item 9, Report No. 80, 1978 November 14, be adopted by Council to become effective 1979 January 01; and
2. THAT Burnaby Trades Licence By-law 1950, By-law No. 3089; Burnaby Club Regulation By-law 1950, By-law No. 3065; Burnaby Cabaret Regulation By-law 1934, By-law No. 1481; Burnaby Cab and Commercial Vehicle By-law 1951, By-law No. 3102; and Burnaby Automatic Vending Machine By-law No. 1914 be amended accordingly.

REPORT

On 1978 November 14, Item 9, Report No. 80 was tabled and the following motion was adopted:

1. That this matter be referred to Council, meeting as a Committee of the Whole, at which time the Municipal Treasurer, the Chief Licence Inspector and other members of the Municipal inspection staff would be present to discuss all ramifications of the subject.

Subsequently, on 1978 November 27 Council directed that a further report come forward.

Item 9, Report No. 80, had two objectives:

1. To cause some of the licence fees to be adjusted to coincide with the average number of inspections for a particular kind of business.
2. To cause the fees to reflect the anticipated cost of making the inspections.

-2-

If changes are to be made in the licencing by-laws, they should be made before the end of the year. Ordinarily, licence renewal notices are sent out prior to December 31. If rates are changed after the date of mailing, it would be necessary to send out further notices which, from a public relations standpoint, is not desirable.

Some questions of concern to Council were:

1. How were the rates constructed?
 2. What are the rates in adjoining municipalities?
 3. What is the justification for using office and inspectional costs in the compilation of Burnaby's licence fees? Are the inspections made for the use of the business being inspected, or are they for the benefit of the community as a whole? If the latter, why should the cost of them not be borne by the whole community?
 4. Is the system of compiling the licence fees complicated? If so, can it be simplified by employing some other method?
 5. Can the system be modified to be less onerous on the smaller businessman?
 6. What is the staff complement of the Licence Department?
 7. How efficient is the deployment of inspectors?
 8. Is there an overlap of inspections by Municipal departments, Provincial and Federal authorities?
1. Table A attached shows how the licence structure for each class of business was compiled in 1978 and the structure recommended for 1979. A licence takes two forms - the initial licence and the continuing licence. The initial licence has an involvement of the Planning Department and the fee for this service is included in the licence. The inspectional departments are the Licence, Building, Fire and Health Departments, and occasionally the Police Department. Each class of business is assessed a licence fee calculated on the average number of inspections required for that particular business. Variations in size of businesses for licencing purposes are determined by the number of people employed.

The estimated cost of processing a new licence by the Licence Department in 1978 is $60.00; and for renewal of licences, $15.00. Inspections by all departments are based on $25.00 per inspection. One hour, including traveling time, is allocated for each inspection. For 1979 these rates are employed, plus 6%, rounded out to the next $5.00.

2. Vancouver licences under its own charter. All other municipalities must licence pursuant to Part X of the Municipal Act, and assess fees pursuant to Section 450 thereof, details of which are set out in Item 3 below.

Table B attached sets out fees chargeable in Burnaby, Vancouver, New Westminster, Richmond and Surrey on selected types of business. The actual list of fees in each municipality is lengthy and likely would not be of interest to Council.

Vancouver taxes for general purposes on Option A assessments, employs a 9.5% business tax and charges licence fees as well.

New Westminster taxes for general purposes on Option A assessments, has a 3% business tax which will be reduced to 2 1/2% in 1979, and licences at rates, some of which are shown in the Table. As the City is required to abate licence fees against business taxes paid, the only businesses actually affected by licence fees are non-resident businesses and certain businesses to which the business tax does not apply.

Richmond and Surrey tax for general purposes on Option A assessments and levy licence fees. They do not employ business taxes.

The Vancouver City Charter gives the City Council freedom in establishing licence fees. Section 450(1) of the Municipal Act restricts Councils in all other municipalities to setting licence fees as follows:

"Council may classify business according to the type of business and may further classify each type of business according to the extent of the business on the basis of any of the following factors, or on the basis of any combination of the following factors that Council deems appropriate to each class of business:

- (a) the floor area used for the carrying on of the business;
- (b) the ground area used for the carrying on of the business;
- (c) the number of people regularly engaged in the carrying on of the business;
- (d) the number of vending or other dispensing machines or other machines, appliances or things used in the carrying on of the business;
- (e) the number of rental units maintained in the carrying on of the business."

New Westminster, Richmond and Surrey follow these regulations to the letter. Burnaby uses a variation as follows.

- 3.&4. The prime purpose of the Licence Department is to coordinate the process by which a business may be licenced and continue to be licenced. The Licence Department spends about 80% of its time in the licencing process - receiving applications for new licences, seeing whether or not the property involved is in the proper zone for the business planned, and coordinating approval by the Planning Department, Building Department, Fire Department, Health Department and, when applicable, the Police Department. The balance of the Department's time is spent on dog and bicycle licencing, Municipal vehicle plates and complaint investigation.

In most municipalities, licencing is necessary to ensure that businesses comply with regulations. It is also a means to obtain revenue within the limits prescribed by the Act - $3,000 per annum for any one operation. When revenues beyond the limits prescribed are desired, a business tax is imposed. Burnaby followed this route and employed a business tax in the years 1965 to 1977. However, with the introduction of the new system of assessments, businesses are taxed for all purposes at 67% greater than are residences, and industry at 100% greater than are residences. It seemed unreasonable to impose a business tax as well as this differential in taxes, and as it was shown that this could be done on average without appreciable change in the amount of taxes payable by owners of residential property, the business tax was abolished. Vancouver did not find itself in this happy position, and found it necessary to carry on with the business tax, as did New Westminster.

With the abolition of business taxes, it became necessary to revise the licence fee structure. Mostly the fees being used were related to the number of people employed. As the Municipal Act requires the fees to be abated by the business tax paid, licence fees per se in the past were collected only from businesses to which the business tax did not apply and from non-resident businesses, and for the latter the number of people employed were quite effective measuring devices - non-resident businesses being mostly contractors performing work in the Municipality. Fees based entirely on the number of persons employed are ineffective in a number of instances. For example, a pizza outlet may employ a very small number of people and the capital investment required for equipment will be small by comparison with a chicken outlet which employs a large number of people and requires a large investment in equipment which is taxable for school and other purposes. Operating costs for a chicken outlet are much larger than they are for a pizza outlet. A licence fee based on the cost of inspections is fairer to both of them. There are many such situations.

We cast about for a more effective method of assessing licence fees. Our first thought was to charge only for the cost of running the Licence Department. It then became apparent that the licencing procedure entailed work by other departments. Initially, it took quite a bit of effort on the part of the departments concerned to arrive at the licence fees that should be charged. Now that this has been done, the system will be inexpensive to maintain.

The system of fees arrived at is governed by the words "Council may classify businesses according to the type of business", and modified by subsection (c) of Section 450 of the Municipal Act: "the number of people regularly engaged in the carrying on of the business."

The system arrived at has application to all types of businesses except hotels and other rented living accommodation, vending and amusement machines, taxis and motor vehicles. The effect of it has been to raise the cost of licencing to the small business and lower it to the large business. This was drawn to Council's attention in Item 20, Report No. 82 of 1977 November 28, copy attached.

5. A suggestion has been made that we should lower the cost to the small businessman. This appears difficult if the premise upon which the system is built is to be maintained, i.e. the licence fees to be based upon the cost of licencing and the inspections necessary thereto.

A suggestion has been made that we should penalize those businesses who require an excessive number of inspections in comparison to like businesses. The fee is not an inspectional fee. It is a licence and is based on the average number of inspections necessary to a specific type of business. It cannot be varied in the circumstances described. There is no provision in the Act to permit a fee to be charged for the inspections. If there were, the fees would automatically take care of the non-conformant problem described. The statutes do not prescribe health and fire inspection fees, likely because the inspections are made not on application of the inspectee, but by decision of an inspector.

This brings into focus the latter portion of the question asked "Are the inspections made for the use of the business being inspected, or are they for the benefit of the community as a whole? If the latter, why should the cost of them not be borne by the community at large?"

In answer to this question, we would say that the inspections are made to safeguard the public and at the same time, assist the businessmen to meet Municipal standards for health and safety.

ITEM	25
MANAGER'S REPORT NO.	87
COUNCIL MEETING	1978 12 11

However, with rising costs, Burnaby is and will be forced in the future to recover its costs as much as possible by means other than the annual mill rate. Hence, this attempt to relate a business licence fee to a cost that would not be there if there were not a business.

The amount of fees receivable through licencing in 1978 is estimated at:

Based on inspectional costs	$ 398,777
Other bases	205,470
	$ 604,247

This is a significant figure. As stated earlier, once the system is established, it can easily be maintained. It could be supplanted by a system based on the number of employees, but this could be more difficult to maintain year by year and could be quite inequitable. This latter system likely would derive more revenue.

The scale of fees recommended makes provision for a 6% increase tempered by the fact that the fees are increased to the nearest $5.00. The expected additional revenue for 1979 is estimated at $42,000.

6. The staff complement of the Licence Department is the Chief Licence Inspector, three inspectors, two full time clerks, one regular part-time clerk and one peak season part-time clerk. Peak season is the months of January and February. The 1979 provisional budget is $195,096.
- 7.&8. The matter of the efficiency of the inspectional departments and the possible overlap of inspections can more properly be reported upon by the departments concerned. They have been asked to do so.

ITEM 20
MANAGER'S REPORT NO. 82
COUNCIL MEETING Nov. 28/77

Re: BURNABY TRADES LICENCE BY-LAW 1950

Following is a report from the Municipal Treasurer on business licence fees.

The first column of fees in the attachments are referred to as "new". This reference is related to the fees that would be paid by applicants who are beginning a business. We have authority in the existing by-law to charge such fees, and in this sense they are not "new". The objective at this time is to update fees to provide off-setting revenue for costs involved in issuing licences for the first time and also on a renewal basis.

There is no relationship in the report between the existing and proposed schedules of licence fees because the principle that is now being applied (recovery of costs for services provided) has not been applied in the past. Further, we cannot supply current licence fees for comparison with the fees proposed in the attached "Schedule of Fees", because in many cases the Business Tax governed, and also the fees were based on the number of employees which varies for each business operation. Also, such a comparison would be of little relevance due to the adoption of Option A which significantly affects the manner in which such fees will be collected in the future.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. THAT the licence fee structure as outlined in the Municipal Treasurer's report and the attachments be adopted by Council to become effective January 1, 1978; and
2. THAT:
 - (a) Burnaby Trades Licence By-Law 1950, No. 3078
 - (b) Burnaby Club Regulation By-Law 1950, No. 3065
 - (c) Burnaby Cabaret Regulation By-Law 1934, No. 1481
 - (d) Burnaby Cab and Commercial Vehicle By-Law 1951, No. 3102be amended accordingly.

FROM: MUNICIPAL TREASURER

RE: BURNABY TRADES LICENCE BY-LAW 1950

Upon the adoption of Option A, in realty assessments for general purpose taxation and the abolition of business taxes, Council directed the Municipal Treasurer to have the business licence fee structure updated, commensurate with the cost of making inspections by the Licence Department and the other inspectional departments of the Municipality.

With some exceptions, the licence fee currently used is based upon the number of persons employed, viz:

1 to 5 persons	$ 63.00
Each additional person	19.00
Maximum, one business	3,000.00

These are annual fees. The maximum of $3,000 is prescribed by the Municipal Act. In accordance with the Act, a municipality employing a business tax must abate the business tax by the business licence fee paid. In most instances in Burnaby, the business tax has exceeded licence fees payable and the scale of licence fees has had no meaning except for non-resident businesses.

ITEM	25
MANAGER'S REPORT NO.	87
COUNCIL MEETING	1978 12 11

ITEM	20
MANAGER'S REPORT NO.	32
COUNCIL MEETING	Nov. 28/77

Now that there will be no business tax, the licence fee itself may be made more meaningful by relating to it the cost of operating the Licence Department and the cost of inspections made by the several Municipal departments relative to the startup and continued operation of a business. 225

The Licence Department spends about 80% of its time in the licencing process - receiving applications for new licences, seeing whether or not the property involved is in the correct zone for the business planned, and co-ordinating approval by the Planning Department, Fire Department, Health Department and when applicable, the Police Department. The balance of the Licence Department's time is spent on dog and bicycle licencing and complaint investigations. Eighty percent of the costs of operating the Licence Department, when related to the time involved in the co-ordination process and the paper work, amounts to about $60 for new licences and about $15 for renewals.

On average, it takes about one hour to perform an inspection and the related paper work for each inspection made by the Sanitation, Building, Fire and Police Departments, as the case may be. The 1978 average wage of all of the inspectors is estimated to be $12.00 per hour inclusive of benefits. For licencing purposes, this sum should be doubled and increased further by the cost of transport plus 10%. This is a method of costing commonly followed by professional engineers.

We believe there should be a fee of one amount when a business starts up and another smaller fee for continued operation. The first should be a fee large enough to cover the cost of the work in the licence office and the cost of the various inspections of the several departments necessary to ensure that a new business operation complies with regulations in the first calendar year of operation. The second should cover the much reduced cost of processing a renewal licence in the Licence Department and the fewer number of departmental inspections necessary to ensure continued compliance with regulations in the second and ensuing years of operation. The Schedule of Fees and Appendix A attached set out the recommended fees.

Section 450(4) of the Municipal Act stipulates: "The Council shall not in any by-laws adopted under this section cause or permit any discrimination between any non-resident business and any resident business, either by the classification of business or by any licence fee imposed."

This Section was enacted to prevent Councils imposing higher fees on non-resident businesses than on resident businesses. However, it does not seem reasonable to charge a non-resident business a startup fee which is promulgated on the inspections necessary to a premises. This may be avoided by charging one fee for a business premises and operation, and a separate one for work or business done away from the premises. In practice, the second mentioned fee only would apply to a non-resident business. The instances where this practice is recommended are marked # in the Schedule of Fees attached.

In this Schedule, each class of business has been rated separately. As described above, with the exception of those marked *, the ratings are compiled on the averages of the amount of time spent by the Licence office and the several departments in inspectional work. Provision is made to licence some kinds of businesses on a sliding scale of fees as set out in Appendix A.

In the instances marked *, apartments, auto courts, hotels, motels and home occupations, the fees cannot be related to inspectional costs and are established at 1977 levels.

In practice, it may be necessary for one business to take out several licences. For example, a department store may operate a gas station and a coffee shop as well as sell general merchandise, in which case they would take out three licences, all of which can be shown on one licence certificate.

It may be of concern that some small businesses, barber shops, beauty parlours, etc., are shown at licence fees which are as much as or more than fees chargeable to much larger businesses. This is to be expected because of the nature of the businesses; some require more inspections by the Health and/or Fire Prevention Office than do others.

There are a number of special purpose by-laws under which certain businesses are regulated. They are listed below, together with recommended changes:

RE: BUSINESS LICENCE FEES
(ITEM 20 REPORT NO. 82, 1977 NOVEMBER 28)

1978 November 08

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. THAT the licence fee structure outlined in the attachment to this report be adopted by Council to become effective 1979 January 01; and
2. THAT Burnaby Trades Licence by-law 1950, by-law No. 3089; Burnaby Club Regulation by-law 1950, by-law No. 3065; Burnaby Cabaret Regulation by-law 1934, by-law No. 1481; Burnaby Cab and Commercial Vehicle by-law 1951, by-law No. 3102; Burnaby Automatic Vending Machine By-law No. 1914 be amended accordingly.

REPORT

With the abolition of business taxes for the year 1978, Council adopted a system of licence fees which relate the fees to the number of inspections of property required for each class of business and the amount of processing required in the several departments.

Now that we have had a year's experience, it is possible to more accurately calculate the cost of making inspections and to process the paper concerned. The consequence is that we recommend that some fees be adjusted upwards and some fees downwards.

Attached is a statement which shows the current licence fees and the proposed licence fees. The proposed licence fees contain a uniform 6% increase to take care of additional costs that are expected to be incurred in 1979.
