REPORT
1993 March 22

Don Brown, as Chair of the Burnaby Centennial Committee, dedicated himself to making Burnaby's Centennial celebration a memorable success. Throughout part of 1991 and all of 1992, Don gave his time unstintingly, often attending several meetings and/or functions a day.

As well as directing the Centennial Committee, Don Brown has contributed numerous hours as a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, the Chair of the Community College for the Retired and the President of the Burnaby Historical Society. He has also given his support to Arts Council programs and numerous other community functions over the years.

Don's contributions to Burnaby have always been supported by his wife, Helen Brown. During the Centennial year, Helen and Don worked as a team with Helen, sharing and supporting his responsibilities and keeping his busy schedule on track. Helen Brown also served as hostess at many Centennial events and is gratefully recognized for her valuable contribution of faithfully clipping press items and assembling them, along with photos, in albums, providing a lasting history of Burnaby's 100 year festivities.

Respectfully submitted,
